Harriet Tubman

This month we commemorate the birthday of Harriet Tubman.

Harriet Tubman was born a slave in 1820 and died 1913, she was often referred to as ‘The Black Moses’. She was an outstanding and courageous leader to the Underground Railroad. She repeatedly risked her life to enable others to reach freedom.

“Every great dream begins with a dreamer. Always remember, you have within you the strength, the patience, and the passion to reach for the stars to change the world.” -Harriet Tubman.

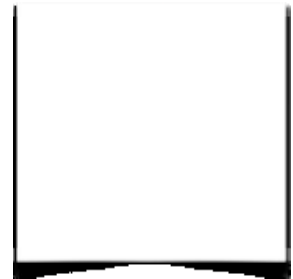

We also commemorate the birthday of Dr. Francis Cress Welsing.

Born March 18th 1935, Dr. Welsing has been described as one of the greatest and most courageous thinkers of our time. She is a Washington DC psychiatrist who has devoted more than 20 years of her life in the study of the origin and institution of racism.

Quincy Jones, our present day hero, born March 14th 1933.

Quincy is a musician, TV producer and pioneering entrepreneur and has one of the longest, most successful careers in popular music. He has been nominated for a record 79 Grammys and won 27. In 1991 he received the Grammy Legend award.
